

Wishing Tree Khon Kaen Resort

General Overview

Wishing Tree is a stylish new resort set in a peaceful riverside woodland habitat on the outskirts of Khon Kaen, Northeast of Thailand (Isaan region). The Wishing Tree represents the provincial tree called the "Pink Shower Tree" (Cassia Bakeriana) which means providing prosperity and preventing decline.

The resort embraces the natural beauty of the surrounding area with the added charm of the Chi River, lush greenery, traditional rice fields and the Northeastern way of life.

Location

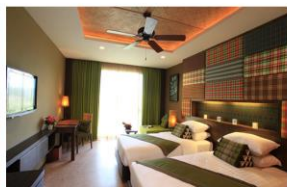

The resort is located fifteen kilometers to the south of down town Khon Kaen on the Chi River bank. Khon Kaen is the second largest of the north-eastern provinces of Thailand in the heart of the Khorat Plateau. The Chi River flows through some parts of the province and is the main water way of Khon Kaen.

Accommodation

All of the 48 rooms and villas are designed to embrace the natural beauty of the surrounding Northeastern way of life by using regional architecture and subtle textured details and also to be environmental friendly. The rooms are spacious with high ceilings, furnished with wood and modern appliances provided.

All units are provided with an amazing view, overlooking the river and landscaped gardens as the private veranda.
